Ag committee okays farm bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Agriculture Committee, acting with unusual haste, approved today a farm bill that opponents say could raise the prices of dairy products by $495 million within a year.

The Senate panel used a measure passed less than 24 hours earlier by the House as the basis for its bill. It accepted most of the House bill but raised government support for the dairy and cotton industries.

It also made the bill effective over three years, rather than one, as in the House measure.

By acting quickly, the committee hoped the bill could be taken up by the full Senate early next week, before it begins an Easter recess.

Because the Senate version differs from that approved by the House, there was little likelihood that a bill could be approved by a conference committee before the recess begins, delaying its delivery to President Ford.

The bill, approved by the House Thursday 259 to 162, would award $350 million to cotton producers, $50 million to dairy farmers and $70 million to grain growers, farm experts estimated.

The bill would be in effect one year and is opposed by the Agriculture Department. Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz has said he will recommend that President Ford veto the measure. The House margin of approval was 22 votes short of the two-thirds required to override a veto if the same number of House members were voting.

The department estimated the bill could raise the retail price of milk by 6 cents a gallon, butter by 15 cents a pound and cheese by 7 cents a pound, for an estimated increase of $495 million in consumer costs by this time next year.

The bill's backers challenged this figure during House debate, asserting inflation would account for most of the expected price increases.

The Agriculture Department earlier estimated that the total cost of the bill could reach $953 million.

The bill sets new target prices for various crops which would be guaranteed by the government. If the free market price for a commodity fell below the target price set by law, the government could make up the difference to farmers.

Under the bill, the target price for cotton would increase from 38 cen5 a bushel, with other feed grains priced at comparable levels, and wheat from $2.05 a bushel to $3.10 a bushel. Milk would be set at 80 per cent of parity.

The measure also sets new loan levels — the amount a farmer can borrow from the government using crops as security. Cotton producers would be authorized to borrow 38 cents for each pound grown, rather than 34 cents; corn and feed grain producers $1.87 a bushel, up from $1.10; wheat producers $2.50 a bushel, from $1.37. Soybean loans would be re-established at about $3.94 a bushel.

Easter season concert to be given Sunday

The Sikeston High School concert choirs will present their 18th annual Palm Sunday concert Sunday afternoon at 2:30 in the high school cafetorium. The Moderne Chorale will also assist with a group of numbers during the course of the concert.

The three concert choirs will present a group of numbers together at the beginning and close of the concert. Selections by the 280 singers will include: "Salutation", "Easter Fanfare", "All People That On Earth Do Dwell", "Peace Like a River", "Jubilate Deo" and "Time Is My Friend".

Each individual Concert Choir will then present a group of choral literature in keeping with the Easter season.

Many soloists and instrumental accompaniments will be featured during the concert. Renee Lustig Clark, Gary Griffin and Steve Dupont will provide solos in "Rockin' Jerusalem". Mark Ingram will sing the baritone solo in "Clap Your Hands" during Concert Choir IV's selections.

Gail Holloway, Beverly Woodall and Belinda Chessor will provide soprano solos during "One Early Easter Morning." Richard Sheehy will sing the tenor solo during "I Will Life Up Mine Eyes", a choral adaptation of Psalm 121 by Richard Moffatt.

The Moderne Chorale will also present soloists during its presentation of "Hallelujah", by De Cormier. The soloists will be Joe Basham, Mark Ingram, Richard Sheehy, Darryll Griggs and Jon Moore.

Concert Choir VII will feature Mike McReynolds as a b aritone soloist in the spiritual, "Who'll Be A Witness For My Lord". Wanda Tedford, Missy Shackleford, Eugene Cox, Joe Basham and Leann Matthews will also be featured soloists in the beautiful Easter number, "By Their Fruits Ye Shall Kow Them".

Along with the abundance of featured soloists during this Palm Sunday concert, instrumental and percussion accompaniment will be presented.

Bryan Crites will provide the percussion and Steve Taylor will play guitar on many of the selections by the choirs. A trumpet trio composed of Bruce Walker, Jay Lopp and Jon Moore will be featured on "Easter Fanfare." Trumpets and trombones will be provided by Jay Lopp, Bruce Walker, Tim Stamp and Pam Tanner during Natalie Sleeth's "Jubilate Deo."

Prepaid plan on funerals investigated

An investigation into allegedly fraudulent business practices by a St. Louis County firm that sells prepaid funeral plans has convinced the attorney general's office of the need for state regulation of such sales.

The firm under investigation is Bankers Memorial Prearrangements Foundation of Clayton, owned by John Benda, 45, of Town and Country. Benda also owns Christian Memorial Funeral Home in Sikeston.

The attorney general's office has obtained a temporary injunction to prevent the firm from selling its burial plans.

The court order was obtained because the firm allegedly violated state laws by refusing to pay five Southeast Missouri funeral homes for purchasers who died and for refusing to make refunds when sought by buyers.

The funeral homes Benda's firm refused to pay were Landess Funeral home of Campbell, Cotrell of Poplar Bluff, Watkins and Sons of Dexter, Amick-Burnett of Chaffee and Caldwell's of Flat River.

David Caldwell, one of the undertakers, has charged that Benda imprudently invested subscribers' funds in a motel in McClure, Ill., which was wiped out by a flood in 1972 and used some of the money to open Christian Memorial Funeral Home in Sikeston.

Richard Steel, attorney for Benda, said funeral homes stopped sending in payments which they collected after Benda's funeral home in Sikeston started offering "funerals $1,000 to $1,500 cheaper" than his

Petition seeks Illmo ambulance

BENTON — A committee from the Illmo-Scott City area presented petitions containing 898 signatures to the Scott County Court Thursday, requesting that an ambulance be stationed in one of the two cities.

The committee said the cities will provide shelter for the ambulance, will assume all responsibility for running the service and will pay all costs, including insurance.

Court judges said if an ambulance district is voted in, the court would no longer have a say in where the ambulances would be stationed. As it now stands, however, there is no reason not to go along with the proposal, the committee was told.

A new ambulance is expected to be delivered from the state in May, which would be based at the Chaffee General Hospital. The court explained that the ambulance presently being used could then be stationed in the Illmo-Scott City area as backup for the new ambulance and vice versa.

Scott County Prosecuting Attorney Jim Moore and Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Steve Taylor presented a written opinion to the Court Thursday concerning the status of the village of Lambert.

Lambert was first incorporated in 1911, but when a committee from the town met with the court Monday, it could not be learned when the last election was held or when the village last used its corporate powers. The committee had asked the court to appoint three trustees.

The written opinion said, after quoting applicable Missouri statutes and court cases, that "the village of Lambert remains incorporated."

It was also stated, "The County Court does not have authority under the statutes of Missouri to provide commissioners or judges over the election of the trustees of the city of Lambert."

The judges pointed out, however, that this does not prevent them from appointing trustees of the village until they can elect their own.

Presiding Judge Louie Hirshowitz said that no decision would be made until the matter could be discussed in more tdetail with the citizens of Lambert.

On Monday, Mr. and Mrs. Owen Wells and Mrs. Arthur Schiwitz of Lambert met with the court. The court invited them to appear again next week to discuss the situation.

The court Thursday displayed a letter dated March 18 from J. Vernon Martin, state conservationist, which said that an application for assistance for a resource conservation and development project has been accepted by the Department of Agriculture and placed on file.

Martin warned, however, that "the providing of assistance to an area for planning and implementation of the application is dependent upon appropriations and specific authorizations for new starts by Congress and then designation of each individual project application for planning by the Secretary of Agriculture."

He suggested that "during the interim prior to the time that the authorization for planning is given, sponsors of the application could very well proceed with some of the inventories and evaluations or other actions that you may determine beneficial to the area."

Hirschowitz said if the county receives any money, it could be used for construction of a park, for roads, drainage districts, or "anythng which would help Scott County citizens."

NBC to air film on SeMo farms

A six-minute segment on farmers in Missouri including footage of Scott and Mississippi counties will be aired Monday by the NBC television network on the "Today Show."

The segment is tentatively set to be shown about 8 a.m., according to a spokesman for WPSD-TV an NBC affiliate in Paducah, Ky. It will be narrated by Rebecca Bell, who traveled with the camera crew.

Sheriff seeks to dismiss $4.5 million law suit

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Judge Roy W. Harper will hear a motion filed by attorneys for W. L. "Cowboy" Ramsey to dismiss a $4.5 million law suit lodged against the New Madrid County sheriff by Henry "Hank" Dale of Lilbourn, president of United Steelworkers of America Local 7886.

The suit was filed Jan. 10 as a result of a Feb. 27, 1974, incident during which Dale claims his civil rights were violated under Articles 1, 5 and 8 of the Bill of Rights, the 14th amendment and the laws of the Labor Relations Act of 1947, as amended.

Dale's suit, accusing the sheriff of taking him into custody against his will, without advising him of any charges against him or any rights he m ight have under law. Dale also charged that during his incarceration he was subjected to neglect and-or intentional mistreatment and was not provided with needed medical treatment.

As a result of the alledged wrongful conduct, Dale charged that he suffered physical abuse and severe damage to his body, in particular to his face and head. He also claimed that he suffered great mental anguish and distress because of the injuries.

The incident stems from a beating the union president suffered after being lodged in the New Madrid County jail on a charge of exhibiting a dangerous and deadly weapon in a threatening manner toward a union member. The charge stemmed from a dispute at the union hall in Marston while the union was on strike at the nearby Noranda Aluminum Inc. complex.

Dale faces trial on the charge April 4 in Mississippi County after numerous postponements and continuances.

Dale's suit seeks $1.5 million for injuries, $25,000 for professional medical treatment and care and $3 million for punitive damages and costs.

The union president appeared in New Madrid County Magistrate Court with a severely blackened right eye and minor abrasions to his left cheek on Feb. 28, 1974. The injuries reportedly were inflicted by cellmates at the New Madrid County jail where he was confined after his arrest by Ramsey.

Dale had previous filed a suit for the same amount against Ramsey on March 22, 1974 in U. S. District Court, but dropped it on March 27, 1974. At that time, Dale did not give any reason for dropping the suit and no allegations of the suit were made public.

Ramsey became the center of a federal and state inquiry after The Daily Standard reported irregularities in the sheriff's office in July, August and September 1974. Two Risco men also leveled charges that they had been beaten while lodged in the jail.

Pistol found under seat of automobile

DEXTER — The Stoddard County sheriff's department arrested two St. Louis men and a Dexter woman Thursday night after a sheriff's deputy observed one of the men placing an object under the seat of an automobile at Town and Country Shopping Center.

According to Sheriff Ralph Mouser, a check of the automobile revealed a 9-millimeter automatic pistol under the front seat. James Wice of St. Louis was arrested and charged with carrying a concealed weapon.

A further check revealed the other man, Robert Brown of St. Louis, was wanted by St. Louis authorities.

The third occupant of the car, Annie Sally Worthan of Dexter, had been attempting to get a refund on a typewriter at the Wal-Mart stores, which she had not purchased. No charges have been filed against Miss Worthan at this time.

Woman to be tried on check charges

BLOOMFIELD — Glenda Philpott of Dexter was bound over to Circuit Court for trial Thursday following a preliminary hearing in Stoddard County Magistrate Court on charges of forgery, uttering a forged check and writing a bogus check.

A second count of forgery was dismissed after a witness failed to identify Mrs. Philpott. An additional charge of writing a bogus check was continued to allow time to contact an out-of-state witness.

Mrs. Philpott is charged with forging and writing several bogus checks to Dexter area merchants under the names of Glenda Schroeder and Glenda Reese.

She was arrested Jan. 25 after the Wal-Mart Discount Store notified police that a woman believed to be Mrs. Philpott had attempted to pass a second bogus check in the same day.

Dexter policeman Jerry Johnson testified that, when arrested, Mrs. Philpott had in her possession a book of counter checks from a Dexter bank and another on an Arnold bank. She also had a check already made out to another Dexter business.

Martha Ware of Puxico testified that the signature on one of the checks did not belong to her son, Jim Ware. She further stated that her son has been in Korea for nearly a year. She also said that when she was notified of the check written against her son's account, she discovered all her son's printed checks were missing.

Dale also charged that during his incarceration he was subjected to neglect and-or intentional mistreatment and was not provided with needed medical treatment.

As a result of the alledged wrongful conduct, Dale charged that he suffered physical abuse and severe damage to his body, in particular to his face and head. He also claimed that he suffered great mental anguish and distress because of the injuries.

The incident stems from a beating the union president suffered after being lodged in the New Madrid County jail on a charge of exhibiting a dangerous and deadly weapon in a threatening manner toward a union member. The charge stemmed from a dispute at the union hall in Marston while the union was on strike at the nearby Noranda Aluminum Inc. complex.

Dale faces trial on the charge April 4 in Mississippi County after numerous postponements and continuances.

Dale's suit seeks $1.5 million for injuries, $25,000 for professional medical treatment and care and $3 million for punitive damages and costs.

The union president appeared in New Madrid County Magistrate Court with a severely blackened right eye and minor abrasions to his left cheek on Feb. 28, 1974. The injuries reportedly were inflicted by cellmates at the New Madrid County jail where he was confined after his arrest by Ramsey.

Dale had previous filed a suit for the same amount against Ramsev on March 22, 1974 in U. S. District Court, but dropped it on March 27, 1974. At that time, Dale did not give any reason for dropping the suit and no allegations of the suit were made public.

Ramsey became the center of a federal and state inquiry after The Daily Standard reported irregularities in the sheriff's office in July, August and September 1974. Two Risco men also leveled charges that they had been beaten while lodged in the jail.

Woman to be tried on check charges

BLOOMFIELD — Glenda Philpott of Dexter was bound over to Circuit Court for trial Thursday following a preliminary hearing in Stoddard County Magistrate Court on charges of forgery, uttering a forged check and writing a bogus check.

A second count of forgery was dismissed after a witness failed to identify Mrs. Philpott. An additional charge of writing a bogus check was continued to allow time to contact an out-of-state witness.

Mrs. Philpott is charged with forging and writing several bogus checks to Dexter area merchants under the names of Glenda Schroeder and Glenda Reese.

She was arrested Jan. 25 after the Wal-Mart Discount Store notified police that a woman believed to be Mrs. Philpott had attempted to pass a second bogus check in the same day.

Dexter policeman Jerry Johnson testified that, when arrested, Mrs. Philpott had in her possession a book of counter checks from a Dexter bank and another on an Arnold bank. She also had a check already made out to another Dexter business.

Martha Ware of Puxico testified that the signature on one of the checks did not belong to her son, Jim Ware. She further stated that her son has been in Korea for nearly a year. She also said that when she was notified of the check written against her son's account, she discovered all her son's printed checks were missing.

Pistol found under seat of automobile

DEXTER — The Stoddard County sheriff's department arrested two St. Louis men and a Dexter woman Thursday night after a sheriff's deputy observed one of the men placing an object under the seat of an automobile at Town and Country Shopping Center.

According to Sheriff Ralph Mouser, a check of the automobile revealed a 9-millimeter automatic pistol under the front seat. James Wice of St. Louis was arrested and charged with carrying a concealed weapon.

A further check revealed the other man, Robert Brown of St. Louis, was wanted by St. Louis authorities.

The third occupant of the car, Annie Sally Worthan of Dexter, had been attempting to get a refund on a typewriter at the Wal-Mart stores, which she had not purchased. No charges have been filed against Miss Worthan at this time.

"HOW DO YOU WIPE OFF THE BLOOD?"

It happened a long time ago, before the outbreak of World War II, when a prominent official returned from Nazi Germany where he had met and shaken hands with the top Fascist followers of Hitler. One of the newspaper reporters covering the event, when told of the hand-shaking, asked very politely: "yes, but how do you wipe off the blood?"

Today, many of our national leaders are again "shaking hands" with tyrants; but the situation is even more horrifying than with the Nazis for the simple reason that the Communists have devised means to eliminate all opposition without much running of blood. And this has just been dramatically brought to light by the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee in Washington in a study called: "Abuse of Psychiatry for Political Repression in the Soviet Union."

Interviewed on the "Washington Report of the Air," Mr. David Martin, Senior Analyst of the Committee, said: "The most horrifying stories had to do with what Dr. Norman B. Hirt (has) termed 'chemical lobotomy.' That is, separating a person from his own personality — his own character — dehumanizing him through the injection of chemicals. I would like to read you a quote from Basili I. Chantischev: 'But the most terrible thing is that as a result of the treatment, all the subtle distinctiveness of a person is wiped away. It is death for creativeness. Those who take ammenizene cannot even read after taking it — intellectually they become more and more uncouth and primitive. Although I am afraid of death, let them shoot me rather than this. How loathsome, how sickening is the very thought that they will defile and crush my soul."

Evidence uncovered by the Senate Committee, most of it from KGB sources, confirms that untold numbers of victims behind the Iron Curtain have been plunged into a state of living death through "chemical lobotomy." Thus, we can ask those who return from "friendly" visits to the U.S.S.R. today: "What do you use to clean your hands?"

SPRING

In The Song of Solomon it is written, "For, lo! the winter is past, the rain is over and gone; the flowers appear on the earth; the time of the singing of birds is come, and the voice of the turtle is heard in our land."

Maybe so. but in view of the varying weather in recent days, area residents on this first full day of spring (which began at12:13 a.m. today) would do well to heed the admonition of Henry van Dyke: "The first day of spring is one thing, and the first spring day is another. The difference between them is sometimes as great as a month."

Yet, in any case, there is little doubt that winter - the cruelest season — is basicaly behind us, while spring — the gentlest - lies before us, giving most of us a psychological uplift. In such a situation we can offer no better advice than that given by John Milton: "In those vernal seasons of the year, when the air is clam and pleasant, it were an injury and sullenness against Nature not to go out and see her riches, and partake in her rejoicing with heaven and earth."

WELCOMING ABOARD THE HIJACKERS

Although it seems somewhat like handing a bank robber a key to the vault in hopes of reforming him, there may be some substance to the argument that the best way to stop the activities of Palestinian terrorists is to give them a voice on the international stage.

That, at any rate, is the most optimistic way of looking at the overwhelming decision by the U.N. General Assembly to recognize the Palestine Liberation Organization as the official spokesman for all Palestinians and to permit it to participate in forthcoming debates on the future of the Middle East.

What is a little more difficult to rationalize is a resolution approved at about the same time by the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO) to extend "observer status" to national liberation movements, including the PLO.

Delegates from the International Federation of Airline Pilots Associations opposed the resolution on the grounds that PLO observers could learn about secret ICAO security measures that have been put in effect to prevent terrorist attacks such as have wreaked bloody havoc at airports in Rome, Athens, Tel Aviv and elsewhere, as well as in aircraft in flight.

LEGISLATIVE PAY

At a time when citizen confidence in state government is needed, Missouri's greedy legislators seem determined to further erode that confidence by their self-serving tactics.

Each year the legislature always seems to find time to pass self-serving bills designed to line their own pockets at taxpayer expense.

Legislation has been approved in a House committee that would raise the annual pay of legislators almost 50 per cent from $8,400 to $12,400.

A legislator spending an average of 104 days a year in Jefferson City now receives a total of $19,400 a year when his compensation is figured for time spent in the Capital City, not counting the current $4,000 in "office expenses."

When they are not in Jefferson City, legislators have other jobs and interests, which further increase their income. Serving as a legislator is a part-time job, and it should stay that way. The $8,400 a year salary is paid even when the legislature is not in session.

When it comes to compensation, Missouri legislators already rank near the top among other states. Even before the per diem expense hike in 1973 and this year's office expense change, the Citizens Conference on State Legislatures reported the Missouri legislature ranked 13th among the 50 states in compensation. When actual time in session is figured, Missouri legislators received abou $100 a day from the state even before the 1973 expense hike and the $4,000 in office expenses approved this year in the House.

Too many legislators have developed an unfortunate attitude that they are doing the state an enormous favor by acting as a lawmaker. This is especially true among lawyers, who get rich because of their legislative connections and their fat retainer fees.

The legislature even was successful in twisting a few arms in the legal profession. With a pay raise pending for judges, the lawyers pushing the pay raise for members of the legislatue got the Missouri Bar Association to endorse the legislative pay raise.

A spokesman for the bar said sheepishly that if the lawyers' association was going to endorse the pay raise for the judicial branch they felt it would only be right to endorse a pay raise for the legislative branch. It was all in the name of "improving justice" in the state. Perhaps a pay raise for full time judges is justified. But a pay raise for part time legislators certainly is not.

Each legislator knew what the salary was for the office when he filed for re-election. How many of them told the public when they were seeking office that the first thing they would do when they got to Jefferson City would be to seek a pay raise for themselves?

A hike in legislator pay from $8,400 a year to $12,400 a year would cost the state an extra $889,258 for the legislature's 163 representatives and 34 senators, including Social Security and other expenses.

Legislators in 1973 approved a bill increasing their daily expense allowance from $10 a day to $25 a day. It is estimated the hike in expenses alone will cost the state an extra $462,000 thsi yrear.

The legislature also took the limit off of the number of employes it could hire. The cost of running the legislature more than doubled to $7 million. Secretaries were hired in Jefferson City and back home. Could it be that some lawyers actually have their private legal secretary back home on the state public payroll? Perhaps home town newspapers in each city ought to check on their legislators, including how they vote on self-serving legislation.

This year members of the House voted to set a maximum of $4,000 a year in "office expenses "That includes $150 a month in state tax funds for a "secretary" in the home district of each legislator. At first the measure was approved with no provision requiring legislators to account for how the money is spent. It was only after Sen. A. Clifford Jones, R-St. Louis County, threatened legal action that the House decided to make some type of accounting of how the $4,000 would be spent.

Nearly all legislators have other jobs and other sources of income in addition to the current $8,400 a year legislative salary, $25 in daily expenses and $4,000 a year in office expenses, not including their full time secretarial help in Jefferson City and the salaries of personal aides placed on permanent committees.

In addition to these benefits, Missouri legislators also receive mileage allowances from their homes to Jefferson City and the opportunity to accept free meals and liquor from lobbyists.

For many years free beer and liquor has been delivered on a regular basis to the offices of legislators at the Capitol. (We wonder how effective a tax paying private business would be if it allowed employes to swig free beer and hard liquor all day while on the job.)

This year Sen. Maurice Schechter, D-Creve Coeur, has introduced and his committee has approved a $10.8 million state pension proposal, including hefty increases for legislators. Sen. William Cason, D-Clinton, a candidate for governor, also has introduced a $2.8 million pension hike bill that would subvert the constitution by making legislators and state employes "consultants" in order to pay them a higher pension.

The pay raise bill was introduced by Rep. Kenneth Rothman and Rep. Robert Snyder. Rothman is the Democratic floor leader and Snyder is the Republican floor leader. No one forced Mr. Rothman and Mr. Snyder, who are both St. Louis County lawyers, to seek the public office.

A few years ago legislators approved a hike in their pensions and now they are back trying for another increase.

Missouri voters should remember the names of all legislators who vote for these self-serving schemes.

Here is the vote in the House Fees and Salaries Committee:

Voting for the $4,000 a year pay raise for legislators were Reps. Robert L. Fowler, D-Ferguson; Russell Goward, D-St. Louis; Roscoe McCrary, D-St. Louis; and Robert Sego, D-Raytown.

Voting against the pay raise were Reps. Robert Kaye, R-Chillicothe; Margaret Miller, R-Marshfield; and Don Hancock, D-Doniphan.

Absent committee members were Reps. Frank Mickelson, D-Freeman; Wayne Goode, D-Normandy; Frank Ellis, D-Sedgewickville; Don Randall, D-St. Joseph; Russell G. Brockfeld, R-Warrenton; and William H. Perry III, R-Webb City.

The taxpayers will stand only so much gouging from their elected state legislators.

If a majority of legislators persist in lining their pockets with taxpayer funds, the only practical alternative for Missouri citizens is to organize an initiative petition drive to change the state Constitution in such a way that the people of Missouri will determine through the petition and subsequent election how much salary and benefits the Constitution will permit Missouri legislators to receive.

Legislative Raid

Missourians making out their income tax forms and struggling to finds ways to deal with inflation and unemployment will be disappointed to learn that many state legislators are still trying to raid the treasury with self-serving benefits.

Bills to hike legislative pay and pensions are moving along in this General Assembly as they did in previous years.

A $10.8 million taxpayer financed state pension increase, including hefty hikes for legislators and elected state officials, is pending in the Missouri Senate.

Known as Senate Bill 236, the measure was introduced by Sen. Maurice Schechter, D-Creve Couer, the sponsor of several other self-serving legislatives pension schemes in previous years.

Under the bill legislators would no longer contribute 5 per cent of their salaries to the retirement fund. The state taxpayer would finance 100 per cent of future legislative retirement.

The bill retains the current benefit that allows legislators to draw pension benefits after serving only six years.

Let's compare the legislative pension with state employe retirement benefits in Schechter's bill:

A legislator, for example, could retire after 20 years of service and receive a state taxpayer financed pension of $5,400 a year for his part time job in Jefferson City.

By comparison, a full time 20-year state employe paid the same salary as a legislator, $8,400 a year, would earn an annual pension of only $2,140 instead of the $5,400 a legislator would receive.

Leislators now have a maximum pension limit of two-thirds of the legislative salary in effect at the time they retire. The bill raises the limit to four-fifths. Retirement for regular state employes is not anywhere near that amount, even though they work full time and legislators are part time.

The bill also eliminates the retirement systems for the highway department and the highway patrol, and turns over all the money now in those retirement funds to the regular state employes retirement system.

In the switch, elected state officials and some regular state employes would have their retirement benefits brought up to the current highway department retirement rate of 1¼ percent instead of the current 1 per cent.

The bill would make all funding come from state taxpayers, eliminating any retirement contributions by employes covered by the system. The measure also provides a 3 per cent cost of living adjustment, something that has never been granted in the past because of the expense. A pending Senate committee amendment eliminates this feature.

Another retirement measure, Senate Bill No. 5, also has been approved in committee and is pending before the full Senate. It was offered by Sen. William Cason, D-Clinton, the president pro tem of the Senate and an announced candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor in 1976.

Cason's bill, which is estimated to cost the taxpayers an extra $2.8 million a year, would require the state taxpayers to provide retirement increases to already retired legislators, elected officials to and other state employes. It would raise their benefits to the highest amount the state law might authorize for future retirement.

In the past such increases to persons who already have retired were considered unconstitutional. But in a scheme to fleece the taxpayers and get around the constitution, all retired state legislators and all retired state employes would be designated "consultants." They then would be paid higher retirement benefits for alleged "services" they could give to the system although they actually would do nothing. Such a scheme, similar to the Missouri Supreme Court judges retirement system, has been upheld by the Missouri Supreme Court in a recent decision.

Both of the pension bills, SB236 and SB5, should be defeated. Missouri taxpayers don't want to further enhance the benefits of legislators and elected officials while throwing crumbs to state employes.

To their credit, most Mid-Missouri legislators have voted against self-serving legislation. But many other legislators, none of whom ran on a platform of serving themselves first, don't hesitate to vote for the schemes because they think the people back home will never learn how they voted.

Senate Bill No. 236, costing the taxpayers an extra $10.8 million and giving retirement increases and extra benefits to legislators, elected state officials and some other state offemployes, cleared the Senate Judiciary Committee on Jan. 29.

Voting for the bill were Sens. Albert M. Spradling Jr., D-Cape Girardeau; John D. Schneider, D-Florissant; Frank Bild, R-St. Louis County; Donald Manford, D-Kansas City; Marvin Dinger, D-Ironton, and Schechter.

The lone no vote was Sen. Emory Melton, Cassville Republican.

Committee members absent were Sen. Lawrence Lee, D-St. Louis; Raymond Howard, D-St. Louis; Jack Gant, D-Independence; and Paul L. Bradshaw, R-Springfield.

Senate Bill No. 5, costing $2.8 million, was approved by the Senate Labor and Management Relations Committee on Feb. 6. Voting in favor of the bill which makes legislators and retired state employes "consultants" in order to get higher state employes "consultants" in in order to get higher pensions were Sens. Donald Gralike, D-St. Louis; Clifford A. Jones, R-Brentwood; Robert Young, D-St. Louis County; John C. Ryan, R-Sedalia; Jasper M. Brancato, D-Kansas City; J.H. Frappier, R-St Louis County; Lee, Cason and Dinger.

There were no negative votes. (Jefferson City News Tribune)

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
Kissinger Prepares For More Middle East War
By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON--While Secretary of State Henry Kissinger is promoting peace in the Middle East, according to sources familiar with his grand design, he is also preparing for continued hostility.

At best, he believes he may be able to keep the Arabs and Israelis apart until the next round of negotiatios. A final settlement, he knows, will have to come out of Geneva. He has given up trying to prevent a revival of the Geneva conference, where both the Soviet Union and the Palestine Liberation Organization will be represented.

Kissinger believes that the Soviets want to continue the tension in the Middle East, albeit without open warfare which could bring a dangerous confrontation with the United States. For tension keeps the Arabs dependent upon Soviet support.

If permanent peace should come to the Middle East, the Arabs would have less need of Soviet arms and could gradually loosen their ties with Moscow. Only Arab fear of Israel's military power, the Kremlin recognizes, permits the Soviets to keep their foothold in the Middle East.

Kissinger, therefor, expects the Soviets to obstruct any settlement that could bring lasting peace between the Arabs and Israelis. This is the reason he has tried to keep the negotiations away from Geneva, where the Soviets have a voice.

This is no longer possible, Kissinger realizes, so peace in the Middle East will remain tenuous. The astute secretary of state has been moving, meanwhile, to protect American interests in the area.

He has been guided more by geography than ideology. The United States, for example, has a big stake in the rich oil fields around the Persian Gulf. Consequently, he has sought to strengthen U.S. ties with the Persian Gulf states from Iran to Oman. He is trying to bolster the military power of Iran, in particular, as the protector of the Persian Gulf. But he is also doing all in his power to help all the Arab oil sheikhs to put down radical, Communist-inspired movements.

Pakistan is strategically located at the top of the Arabian Sea, commanding the approaches to the Persian Gulf. This is one reason, say our resources, for Kissinger's famous tilt toward Pakistan. He has quietly encouraged Iran and other oil potentates to provide Pakistan with over $1 billion in military aid. Now Kissinger has also lifted the U.S. embargo, which will permit the United States to ship arms directly to Pakistan.

Also crucial to U.S. interests in the Middle East, Kissinger contends, is Turkey which sits astride the Soviet passageway from the Black Sea to the Mediterranean Sea. This explains his careful but unsuccessful attempts to tilt toward Turkey. In the secretary's view, Turkey is an essential ally which Congress has alienated by cutting off military aide.

In private, Kissinger has complained that he is bound by geopolitics in choosing the allies that will be fest for the United States. He has to give second place, he has said, to the degree of democracy in those countries and to their ethnic constituencies in the United States.

SECRET AGENT? CIA defector Phillip Agee has identified a former Paris associate, named Sal Ferrera, as a probable undercover CIA agent. We now learned that the same Ferrera was once on the staff of Washington's underground newspaper, "Quicksilver Times."

It would have made a perfect cover for CIA work. For as an underground reporter, Ferrera had access to the radical leaders, ghetto militants, Latin American leftists and other revolutionaries who came to Washington.

Subsequently, Ferrera moved to Paris where he became associated with an attractive woman named Leslie Donegan. Agee charg that she loaned him a bugged typewriter. It contained a hidden electronic device, which made it possible for the CIA to locate his hideout in Paris. Agee says he is "almost " sure that Ferrera was also a CIA spy.

Ferrera denied to us that he has ever worked for the CIA. But his former associates in Washington's colorful underground press community believe that Agee's suspicions about Ferrera may be right.

They recall, for example, that he lived in a fashionable apartment and was always better fixed for cash than his comrades in the "Quicksilver Times" commune.

"He wasn't living out of a sleeping bag or an orange crate," said one former friend, Pattie Heck. Another acquaintance, lawyer Douglas Smith, agreed: "Sal's lifestyle was inconsistent with his professed political views. He lived in a nice apartment, a new building where you had to be announced to get in."

Ferrera also had a fascination for electronic equipment and knew how to use it, they said. Ms. Heck told she expected "sooner or later somebody was going to turn up" as an infiltrator, but she hates to think it was her friend Ferrera.

"When I saw the Agee book," she said sadly, "I cried. I didn't want to believe it. I really liked him."

Call Girl Switchboard: Crime Syndicates Using Welfare System As Cover

WASHINGTON--Now up crops the crime syndicate in the welfare system. It's all laid out cold, fact after fact, marching in perfect lines like West Point cadets, in a long sobbing and throbbing document made available to me by a courageous Midwest lady.

Her charges check out. FBI files delineate this. So do the dossiers of the fabulous but self-effacing U.S. postal inspectors. So I'll keep her in anonymity except to report she's in welfare administration in a big Midwest industrial state.

Among the mob ripoffs, using the welfare system as a front in at least one county, are: stolen goods, stolen check rings, real estate swindles, narcotics pushing, gun stealing, secreting stolen property, prostitution, protection rackets and even a call girl syndicate switchboard set up up in a welfare office.

"I did want you to know about the spectrum of welfare employes," she writes, "from the county director who helps the ineligible client onto ADC (Aid to Dependent Children) and into the syndicate, along with the allied aids of Food Stamps, Medicaid, Social Services, Child Care, training programs, work incentive grants, emergency assistance, etc. to the county workers who know exactly who is committing fraud, but need their jobs."

So for fear of losing their jobs or getting their skulls cracked, the honest welfare case workers keep silent. Except for the lady who wrote me and who has worked with the authorities but apparently futilely. The rackets roll on.

Apparently it takes time to move the bureaucracy. Several years ago I began hammering at massive welfare thefts. No action. Now on March 13, HEW Secretary Cap Weinberger has sufficient evidence to announce that Medicaid ineligibility and thievery have been costing America's deficit corroded treasury some $600 million annually.

Dwight, Jr., administrator of HEW's Social and Rehabilitation Service (who administers the national welfare program), wrote to a state publishers' association.:

"Victor Riesel, in one of his January 'Inside Labor' columns, asserts that large sums of money are being wasted on ineligible welfare recipients. As the Federal Officer responsible for welfare, I share his condern, particularly the 'mind-boggling' waste in welfare expressed in the column by New York welfare inspector general William Meyers, who wonders whether local State and Federal officials really care."

Over the past decade, billions have been stolen from welfare budgets by standardized ripoffs. But now the crusading lady from the Midwest discloses underworld operations inside the system: high regional welfare administration officials who develop "special clients" as narcotics pushers, gamblers and prostitute providers. The switchboard to which I referred earlier was set up so the welfare calls would provide a cover for requests for call girls. And interstate at that.

My source reports she first was angered when she discovered, as a case worker, that 25 per cent of her clients were "frauds" and 15 per cent were ineligible. She went to her chief. She said she was indignant. He told her, in effect, one isn't supposed to be indignant.

Further she was informed, really there is less than 2 per cent fraud. And if you work to terminate the ineligible persons or families or stop the overpayments, "you don't get promoted--you get transferred or fired."

She discovered such rackets as one of her chiefs sending welfare checks directly to the "missing father" instead of the family with dependent children. And throughout the U.S. there are 1.3 million missing fathers who have abandoned their families and thrust them on the welfare rolls.

My source discovered intricate real estate operations by groups of gamblers who were put on the rolls as "special clients" and pushed the numbers.

One such welfare client-gambler bought an $18,000 house, two cars and opened two bank accounts. These are low-echelon operations, says she, protected by some in high places reaching into rarified political circles.

Thus there is a new pattern of racketeering. The "special clients" are put on welfare rolls and get preferred status . They use this as a cover for synidicated crime operations - at the expense of the government.

All this is not the fault of men like Jim Dwight, the national welfare administrator. He wrote the publishers association that the ""the federal government has added inspectors, and assisted states in training staff, and is cutting off funds to homes that violate necessary federal standards."

The fault obviously, as it is in the nursing home scandals, is in the state and regional hierarchies. They not only permit the ripoff of a nation, but the ripping of food from the mouths of children and families whose places the mob takes--and exploits - on the welfare rosters.

"HOW DO YOU WIPE OFF THE BLOOD?"

It happened a long time ago, before the outbreak of World War II, when a prominent official returned from Nazi Germany where he had met and shaken hands with the top Fascist followers of Hitler. One of the newspaper reporters covering the event, when told of the hand-shaking, asked very politely: "yes, but how do you wipe off the blood?"

Today, many of our national leaders are again "shaking hands" with tyrants; but the situation is even more horrifying than with the Nazis for the simple reason that the Communists have devised means to eliminate all opposition without much running of blood. And this has just been dramatically brought to light by the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee in Washington in a study called: "Abuse of Psychiatry for Political Repression in the Soviet Union."

Interviewed on the "Washington Report of the Air," Mr. David Martin, Senior Analyst of the Committee, said: "The most horrifying stories had to do with what Dr. Norman B. Hirt (has) termed 'chemical lobotomy.' That is, separating a person from his own personality — his own character — dehumanizing him through the injection of chemicals. I would like to read you a quote from Basili I. Chantischev: 'But the most terrible thing is that as a result of the treatment, all the subtle distinctiveness of a person is wiped away. It is death for creativeness. Those who take ammenizene cannot even read after taking it — intellectually they become more and more uncouth and primitive. Although I am afraid of death, let them shoot me rather than this. How loathsome, how sickening is the very thought that they will defile and crush my soul."

Evidence uncovered by the Senate Committee, most of it from KGB sources, confirms that untold numbers of victims behind the Iron Curtain have been plunged into a state of living death through "chemical lobotomy." Thus, we can ask those who return from "friendly" visits to the U.S.S.R. today: "What do you use to clean your hands?"

SPRING

In The Song of Solomon it is written, "For, lo! the winter is past, the rain is over and gone; the flowers appear on the earth; the time of the singing of birds is come, and the voice of the turtle is heard in our land."

Maybe so. but in view of the varying weather in recent days, area residents on this first full day of spring (which began at12:13 a.m. today) would do well to heed the admonition of Henry van Dyke: "The first day of spring is one thing, and the first spring day is another. The difference between them is sometimes as great as a month."

Yet, in any case, there is little doubt that winter - the cruelest season — is basicaly behind us, while spring — the gentlest - lies before us, giving most of us a psychological uplift. In such a situation we can offer no better advice than that given by John Milton: "In those vernal seasons of the year, when the air is clam and pleasant, it were an injury and sullenness against Nature not to go out and see her riches, and partake in her rejoicing with heaven and earth."

WELCOMING ABOARD THE HIJACKERS

Although it seems somewhat like handing a bank robber a key to the vault in hopes of reforming him, there may be some substance to the argument that the best way to stop the activities of Palestinian terrorists is to give them a voice on the international stage.

That, at any rate, is the most optimistic way of looking at the overwhelming decision by the U.N. General Assembly to recognize the Palestine Liberation Organization as the official spokesman for all Palestinians and to permit it to participate in forthcoming debates on the future of the Middle East.

What is a little more difficult to rationalize is a resolution approved at about the same time by the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO) to extend "observer status" to national liberation movements, including the PLO.

Delegates from the International Federation of Airline Pilots Associations opposed the resolution on the grounds that PLO observers could learn about secret ICAO security measures that have been put in effect to prevent terrorist attacks such as have wreaked bloody havoc at airports in Rome, Athens, Tel Aviv and elsewhere, as well as in aircraft in flight.

Having hijacked the world at the United Nations, comments Near East Report, a Washington- based, pro-Israel publication, the PLO may now be admitted to a body which has the task of curbing hijackers.

LEGISLATIVE PAY

At a time when citizen confidence in state government is needed, Missouri's greedy legislators seem determined to further erode that confidence by their self-serving tactics.

Each year the legislature always seems to find time to pass self-serving bills designed to line their own pockets at taxpayer expense.

Legislation has been approved in a House committee that would raise the annual pay of legislators almost 50 per cent from $8,400 to $12,400.

A legislator spending an average of 104 days a year in Jefferson City now receives a total of $19,400 a year when his compensation is figured for time spent in the Capital City, not counting the current $4,000 in "office expenses."

When they are not in Jefferson City, legislators have other jobs and interests, which further increase their income. Serving as a legislator is a part-time job, and it should stay that way. The $8,400 a year salary is paid even when the legislature is not in session.

When it comes to compensation, Missouri legislators already rank near the top among other states. Even before the per diem expense hike in 1973 and this year's office expense change, the Citizens Conference on State Legislatures reported the Missouri legislature ranked 13th among the 50 states in compensation. When actual time in session is figured, Missouri legislators received abou $100 a day from the state even before the 1973 expense hike and the $4,000 in office expenses approved this year in the House.

Too many legislators have developed an unfortunate attitude that they are doing the state an enormous favor by acting as a lawmaker. This is especially true among lawyers, who get rich because of their legislative connections and their fat retainer fees.

The legislature even was successful in twisting a few arms in the legal profession. With a pay raise pending for judges, the lawyers pushing the pay raise for members of the legislatue got the Missouri Bar Association to endorse the legislative pay raise.

A spokesman for the bar said sheepishly that if the lawyers' association was going to endorse the pay raise for the judicial branch they felt it would only be right to endorse a pay raise for the legislative branch. It was all in the name of "improving justice" in the state. Perhaps a pay raise for full time judges is justified. But a pay raise for part time legislators certainly is not.

Each legislator knew what the salary was for the office when he filed for re-election. How many of them told the public when they were seeking office that the first thing they would do when they got to Jefferson City would be to seek a pay raise for themselves?

A hike in legislator pay from $8,400 a year to $12,400 a year would cost the state an extra $889,258 for the legislature's 163 representatives and 34 senators, including Social Security and other expenses.

Legislators in 1973 approved a bill increasing their daily expense allowance from $10 a day to $25 a day. It is estimated the hike in expenses alone will cost the state an extra $462,000 thsi yrear.

The legislature also took the limit off of the number of employes it could hire. The cost of running the legislature more than doubled to $7 million. Secretaries were hired in Jefferson City and back home. Could it be that some lawyers actually have their private legal secretary back home on the state public payroll? Perhaps home town newspapers in each city ought to check on their legislators, including how they vote on self-serving legislation.

This year members of the House voted to set a maximum of $4,000 a year in "office expenses "That includes $150 a month in state tax funds for a "secretary" in the home district of each legislator. At first the measure was approved with no provision requiring legislators to account for how the money is spent. It was only after Sen. A. Clifford Jones, R-St. Louis County, threatened legal action that the House decided to make some type of accounting of how the $4,000 would be spent.

Nearly all legislators have other jobs and other sources of income in addition to the current $8,400 a year legislative salary, $25 in daily expenses and $4,000 a year in office expenses, not including their full time secretarial help in Jefferson City and the salaries of personal aides placed on permanent committees.

In addition to these benefits, Missouri legislators also receive mileage allowances from their homes to Jefferson City and the opportunity to accept free meals and liquor from lobbyists.

For many years free beer and liquor has been delivered on a regular basis to the offices of legislators at the Capitol. (We wonder how effective a tax paying private business would be if it allowed employes to swig free beer and hard liquor all day while on the job.)

This year Sen. Maurice Schechter, D-Creve Coeur, has introduced and his committee has approved a $10.8 million state pension proposal, including hefty increases for legislators. Sen. William Cason, D-Clinton, a candidate for governor, also has introduced a $2.8 million pension hike bill that would subvert the constitution by making legislators and state employes "consultants" in order to pay them a higher pension.

The pay raise bill was introduced by Rep. Kenneth Rothman and Rep. Robert Snyder. Rothman is the Democratic floor leader and Snyder is the Republican floor leader. No one forced Mr. Rothman and Mr. Snyder, who are both St. Louis County lawyers, to seek the public office.

A few years ago legislators approved a hike in their pensions and now they are back trying for another increase.

Missouri voters should remember the names of all legislators who vote for these self-serving schemes.

Here is the vote in the House Fees and Salaries Committee:

Voting for the $4,000 a year pay raise for legislators were Reps. Robert L. Fowler, D-Ferguson; Russell Goward, D-St. Louis; Roscoe McCrary, D-St. Louis; and Robert Sego, D-Raytown.

Voting against the pay raise were Reps. Robert Kaye, R-Chillicothe; Margaret Miller, R-Marshfield; and Don Hancock, D-Doniphan.

Absent committee members were Reps. Frank Mickelson, D-Freeman; Wayne Goode, D-Normandy; Frank Ellis, D-Sedgewickville; Don Randall, D-St. Joseph; Russell G. Brockfeld, R-Warrenton; and William H. Perry III, R-Webb City.

The taxpayers will stand only so much gouging from their elected state legislators.

If a majority of legislators persist in lining their pockets with taxpayer funds, the only practical alternative for Missouri citizens is to organize an initiative petition drive to change the state Constitution in such a way that the people of Missouri will determine through the petition and subsequent election how much salary and benefits the Constitution will permit Missouri legislators to receive.

Legislative Raid

Missourians making out their income tax forms and struggling to finds ways to deal with inflation and unemployment will be disappointed to learn that many state legislators are still trying to raid the treasury with self-serving benefits.

Bills to hike legislative pay and pensions are moving along in this General Assembly as they did in previous years.

A $10.8 million taxpayer financed state pension increase, including hefty hikes for legislators and elected state officials, is pending in the Missouri Senate.

Known as Senate Bill 236. the measure was introduced by Sen. Maurice Schechter, D-Creve Couer, the sponsor of several other self-serving legislatives pension schemes in previous years.

Under the bill legislators would no longer contribute 5 per cent of their salaries to the retirement fund. The state taxpayer would finance 100 per cent of future legislative retirement.

The bill retains the current benefit that allows legislators to draw pension benefits after serving only six years.

Let's compare the legislative pension with state employe retirement benefits in Schechter's bill:

A legislator, for example, could retire after 20 years of service and receive a state taxpayer financed pension of $5,400 a year for his part time job in Jefferson City.

By comparison, a full time 20-year state employe paid the same salary as a legislator, $8,400 a year, would earn an annual pension of only $2,140 instead of the $5,400 a legislator would receive.

Leislators now have a maximum pension limit of two-thirds of the legislative salary in effect at the time they retire. The bill raises the limit to four-fifths. Retirement for regular state employes is not anywhere near that amount, even though they work full time and legislators are part time.

The bill also eliminates the retirement systems for the highway department and the highway patrol, and turns over all the money now in those retirement funds to the regular state employes retirement system.

In the switch, elected state officials and some regular state employes would have their retirement benefits brought up to the current highway department retirement rate of 1¼ percent instead of the current 1 per cent.

The bill would make all funding come from state taxpayers, eliminating any retirement contributions by employes covered by the system. The measure also provides a 3 per cent cost of living adjustment, something that has never been granted in the past because of the expense. A pending Senate committee amendment eliminates this feature.

Another retirement measure, Senate Bill No. 5, also has been approved in committee and is pending before the full Senate. It was offered by Sen. William Cason, D-Clinton, the president pro tem of the Senate and an announced candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor in 1976.

Cason's bill, which is estimated to cost the taxpayers an extra $2.8 million a year, would require the state taxpayers to provide retirement increases to already retired legislators, elected officials to and other state employes. It would raise their benefits to the highest amount the state law might authorize for future retirement.

In the past such increases to persons who already have retired were considered unconstitutional. But in a scheme to fleece the taxpayers and get around the constitution, all retired state legislators and all retired state employes would be designated "consultants." They then would be paid higher retirement benefits for alleged "services" they could give to the system although they actually would do nothing. Such a scheme, similar to the Missouri Supreme Court judges retirement system, has been upheld by the Missouri Supreme Court in a recent decision.

Both of the pension bills, SB236 and SB5, should be defeated. Missouri taxpayers don't want to further enhance the benefits of legislators and elected officials while throwing crumbs to state employes.

To their credit, most Mid-Missouri legislators have voted against self-serving legislation. But many other legislators, none of whom ran on a platform of serving themselves first, don't hesitate to vote for the schemes because they think the people back home will never learn how they voted.

Senate Bill No. 236, costing the taxpayers an extra $10.8 mlion and giving retirement increases and extra benefits to legislators, elected state officials and some other state offemployes, cleared the Senate Judiciary Committee on Jan. 29.

Voting for the bill were Sens. Albert M. Spradling Jr., D-Cape Girardeau; John D. Schneider, D-Florissant; Frank Bild, R-St. Louis County; Donald Manford, D-Kansas City; Marvin Dinger, D-Ironton, and Schechter.

The lone no vote was Sen. Emory Melton, Cassville Republican.

Committee members absent were Sen. Lawrence Lee, D-St. Louis; Raymond Howard, D-St. Louis; Jack Gant, D-Independence; and Paul L. Bradshaw, R-Springfield.

Senate Bill No. 5, costing $2.8 million, was approved by the Senate Labor and Management Relations Committee on Feb. 6. Voting in favor of the bill which makes legislators and retired state employes "consultants" in order to get higher state employes "consultants" in in order to get higher pensions were Sens. Donald Gralike, D-St. Louis; Clifford A. Jones, R-Brentwood; Robert Young, D-St. Louis County; John C. Ryan, R-Sedalia; Jasper M. Brancato, D-Kansas City; J.H. Frappier, R-St Louis County; Lee, Cason and Dinger.

There were no negative votes. (Jefferson City News Tribune)

Call Girl Switchboard: Crime Syndicates Using Welfare System As Cover

WASHINGTON--Now up crops the crime syndicate in the welfare system. It's all laid out cold, fact after fact, marching in perfect lines like West Point cadets, in a long sobbing and throbbing document made available to me by a courageous Midwest lady.

Her charges check out. FBI files delineate this. So do the dossiers of the fabulous but self-effacing U.S. postal inspectors. So I'll keep her in anonymity except to report she's in welfare administration in a big Midwest industrial state.

Among the mob ripoffs, using the welfare system as a front in at least one county, are: stolen goods, stolen check rings, real estate swindles, narcotics pushing, gun stealing, secreting stolen property, prostitution, protection rackets and even a call girl syndicate switchboard set up up in a welfare office.

"I did want you to know about the spectrum of welfare employes," she writes, "from the county director who helps the ineligible client onto ADC (Aid to Dependent Children) and into the syndicate, along with the allied aids of Food Stamps, Medicaid, Social Services, Child Care, training programs, work incentive grants, emergency assistance, etc. to the county workers who know exactly who is committing fraud, but need their jobs."

So for fear of losing their jobs or getting their skulls cracked, the honest welfare case workers keep silent. Except for the lady who wrote me and who has worked with the authorities but apparently futilely. The rackets roll on.

Apparently it takes time to move the bureaucracy. Several years ago I began hammering at massive welfare thefts. No action. Now on March 13, HEW Secretary Cap Weinberger has sufficient evidence to announce that Medicaid ineligibility and thievery have been costing America's deficit corroded treasury some $600 million annually.

Dwight, Jr., administrator of HEW's Social and Rehabilitation Service (who administers the national welfare program), wrote to a state publishers' association.:

"Victor Riesel, in one of his January 'Inside Labor' columns, asserts that large sums of money are being wasted on ineligible welfare recipients. As the Federal Officer responsible for welfare, I share his condern, particularly the 'mind-boggling' waste in welfare expressed in the column by New York welfare inspector general William Meyers, who wonders whether local State and Federal officials really care."

Over the past decade, billions have been stolen from welfare budgets by standardized ripoffs. But now the crusading lady from the Midwest discloses underworld operations inside the system: high regional welfare administration officials who develop "special clients" as narcotics pushers, gamblers and prostitute providers. The switchboard to which I referred earlier was set up so the welfare calls would provide a cover for requests for call girls. And interstate at that.

My source reports she first was angered when she discovered, as a case worker, that 25 per cent of her clients were "frauds" and 15 per cent were ineligible. She went to her chief. She said she was indignant. He told her, in effect, one isn't supposed to be indignant.

Further she was informed, really there is less than 2 per cent fraud. And if you work to terminate the ineligible persons or families or stop the overpayments, "you don't get promoted--you get transferred or fired."

She discovered such rackets as one of her chiefs sending welfare checks directly to the "missing father" instead of the family with dependent children. And throughout the U.S. there are 1.3 million missing fathers who have abandoned their families and thrust them on the welfare rolls.

My source discovered intricate real estate operations by groups of gamblers who were put on the rolls as "special clients" and pushed the numbers.

One such welfare client-gambler bought an $18,000 house, two cars and opened two bank accounts. These are low-echelon operations, says she, protected by some in high places reaching into rarified political circles.

Thus there is a new pattern of racketeering. The "special clients" are put on welfare rolls and get preferred status. They use this as a cover for synidicated crime operations - at the expense of the government.

All this is not the fault of men like Jim Dwight, the national welfare administrator. He wrote the publishers association that the ""the federal government has added inspectors, and assisted states in training staff, and is cutting off funds to homes that violate necessary federal standards."

The fault obviously, as it is in the nursing home scandals, is in the state and regional hierarchies. They not only permit the ripoff of a nation, but the ripping of food from the mouths of children and families whose places the mob takes–and exploits - on the welfare rosters.

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
Kissinger Prepares For More Middle East War
By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON--While Secretary of State Henry Kissinger is promoting peace in the Middle East, according to sources familiar with his grand design, he is also preparing for continued hostility.

At best, he believes he may be able to keep the Arabs and Israelis apart until the next round of negotiatios. A final settlement, he knows, will have to come out of Geneva. He has given up trying to prevent a revival of the Geneva conference, where both the Soviet Union and the Palestine Liberation Organization will be represented.

Kissinger believes that the Soviets want to continue the tension in the Middle East, albeit without open warfare which could bring a dangerous confrontation with the United States. For tension keeps the Arabs dependent upon Soviet support.

If permanent peace should come to the Middle East, the Arabs would have less need of Soviet arms and could gradually loosen their ties with Moscow. Only Arab fear of Israel's military power, the Kremlin recognizes, permits the Soviets to keep their foothold in the Middle East.

Kissinger, therefor, expects the Soviets to obstruct any settlement that could bring lasting peace between the Arabs and Israelis. This is the reason he has tried to keep the negotiations away from Geneva, where the Soviets have a voice.

This is no longer possible, Kissinger realizes, so peace in the Middle East will remain tenuous. The astute secretary of state has been moving, meanwhile, to protect American interests in the area.

He has been guided more by geography than ideology. The United States, for example, has a big stake in the rich oil fields around the Persian Gulf. Consequently, he has sought to strengthen U.S. ties with the Persian Gulf states from Iran to Oman. He is trying to bolster the military power of Iran, in particular, as the protector of the Persian Gulf. But he is also doing all in his power to help all the Arab oil sheikhs to put down radical, Communist-inspired movements.

Pakistan is strategically located at the top of the Arabian Sea, commanding the approaches to the Persian Gulf. This is one reason, say our resources, for Kissinger's famous tilt toward Pakistan. He has quietly encouraged Iran and other oil potentates to provide Pakistan with over $1 billion in military aid. Now Kissinger has also lifted the U.S. embargo, which will permit the United States to ship arms directly to Pakistan.

Also crucial to U.S. interests in the Middle East, Kissinger contends, is Turkey which sits astride the Soviet passageway from the Black Sea to the Mediterranean Sea. This explains his careful but unsuccessful attempts to tilt toward Turkey. In the secretary's view, Turkey is an essential ally which Congress has alienated by cutting off military aide.

In private, Kissinger has complained that he is bound by geopolitics in choosing the allies that will be fest for the United States. He has to give second place, he has said, to the degree of democracy in those countries and to their ethnic constituencies in the United States.

SECRET AGENT? CIA defector Phillip Agee has identified a former Paris associate, named Sal Ferrera, as a probable undercover CIA agent. We now learned that the same Ferrera was once on the staff of Washington's underground newspaper, "Quicksilver Times."

It would have made a perfect cover for CIA work. For as an underground reporter, Ferrera had access to the radical leaders, ghetto militants, Latin American leftists and other revolutionaries who came to Washington.

Subsequently, Ferrera moved to Paris where he became associated with an attractive woman named Leslie Donegan. Agee charge that she loaned him a bugged typewriter. It contained a hidden electronic device, which made it possible for the CIA to locate his hideout in Paris. Agee says he is "almost " sure that Ferrera was also a CIA spy.

Ferrera denied to us that he has ever worked for the CIA. But his former associates in Washington's colorful underground press community believe that Agee's suspicions about Ferrera may be right.

They recall, for example, that he lived in a fashionable apartment and was always better fixed for cash than his comrades in the "Quicksilver Times" commune.

"He wasn't living out of a sleeping bag or an orange crate," said one former friend, Pattie Heck. Another acquaintance, lawyer Douglas Smith, agreed: "Sal's lifestyle was inconsistent with his professed political views. He lived in a nice apartment, a new building where you had to be announced to get in."

Ferrera also had a fascination for electronic equipment and knew how to use it, they said. Ms. Heck told she expected "sooner or later somebody was going to turn up" as an infiltrator, but she hates to think it was her friend Ferrera.

"When I saw the Agee book," she said sadly, "I cried. I didn't want to believe it. I really liked him."

Ann Landers

Reader knocks dirty habit

Dear Ann Landers: I read your response to the 14-year-old girl whose parents didn't want her to smoke so she did it behind their backs. She thought it would have been a lot smarter if her folks had given their permission rather than making a "sneak out of her."

I know a little about smoking because I started at 15 for the same reasons that most teenagers start. They think it's cool. They like the feeling of freedom and independence it gives them. They feel grown up. Never mind the holes burned in their clothes, the bad breath, the $300 a year spent on the damned things. Their smoking friends won't say anything -- except maybe, "Got a cigaret? -- but their non-smoking friends view them as weak and hooked by a dirty habit.

If I sound like a square, let me tell you that I've tried such an assortment of illegal drugs it would make your head swim. I've had pot, LSD, uppers and downers, mescaline, cocaine and even heroin. But the only thing I CAN'T get off of is cigarets.

So please, Ann, print this letter for your teenage readers with this message from me.QUIT NOW. You might not be able to later -- and it's a lousy habit that can ruin your health. -- Old Enough To Know Better

Dear Better: Thanks for your letter. And now a message from me to YOU. There is no such thing as CAN'T -- only WON'T. Millions of nicotine addicts have kicked the habit and you can, too. Suffer a little now for the added benefits that will last you a lifetime.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I are taking care of my sister's son who is 18 months old. She asked us if we'd keep him until we got tired of him.

He is such an adorable little guy I don't see how anyone could ever get tired of him. Our own little girl will be four years old next month.

My sister is 22. This is her second out-of-wedlock child. The first one died from neglect. She is the type who moves from guy to guy and won't listen to anyone.

My husband and I have always wanted two children, a boy and a girl. This little nephew is just like a son. Is there any way we can adopt him legally? We love him very much -- which is more than I can say for his mother. She rarely calls and hardly ever comes to see him. Can you help us? -- Want Him Desperately

Dear Want Him: Your sister is the only person who can give you permission to adopt this child legally. I hope, with all my heart, that she will. Obviously he has a wonderful home with you and it would be an act of wisdom and generosity if she would sign the papers.

Show her this column if you think it will help. I'm keeping my fingers crossed.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently a very fine man who has taken me out serveral times embarrassded me by asking a rather personal question. He wanted to know why I didn't "do something." about a hair-sprouting mole on my cheek. I told him I had seen a doctor and he said to leave it alone because it's deeply rooted and removal might be dangerous.

My friend said the doctor was full of baloney. What about this, Ann?J -- Surprised

Dear S.: If the mole is deeply rooted the removal might leave an identation, but it would look better than a hair - sprouting mole. See another doctor. The only moles that might produce problems upon a removal attempt are those near the eyelids or the nose.

Clothing bill rises

By JEWEL GRADY

Consumers spent approximately $351 per person on clothing and shoes in 1974. During 1975 price levels for apparel will probably continue to rise.

Mens and boys clothes were increased 7.1 per cent over 1973 prices. Women and girls clothing and shoes were increased slightly over 6 per cent.

Trade papers report consumer resistance to price increases. Demands are being made for longer lasting clothing, textiles of better quality, and conservative styles in the higher price range clothing.

Women are reported to have started to accessorize costumes which are basic in their wardrobe. More uses are being made of fancy printed sheets for household items such as drapes and bedspreads.

Thread manufacturers are promoting home sewing of garments, drapes and slipcovers as a way for cutting cost. Retailers are attempting to cut costs and hold down prices by having leaner inventories of clothing, marking down slow moving goods earlier, and promoting "irregular" items such as towels and sheets. They are also beginning to show simpler items like the "leisure" suit for men and more practical clothing for women.

As pressures on consumer income continue, reduced amounts available for discretionary spending may bring further reduction in the average person's spending on clothing.

The above situation can help the consumer in making family clothing plans. As consumers more time may be needed to plan carefully any necessary purchases of clothing and textiles, care given to shopping wisely for approximately durable items and repair and alteration of garments to extend their useful life.

Ann Landers

Reader knocks dirty habit

Dear Ann Landers: I read your response to the 14-year-old girl whose parents didn't want her to smoke so she did it behind their backs. She thought it would have been a lot smarter if her folks had given their permission rather than making a "sneak out of her."

I know a little about smoking because I started at 15 for the same reasons that most teenagers start. They think it's cool. They like the feeling of freedom and independence it gives them. They feel grown up. Never mind the holes burned in their clothes, the bad breath, the $300 a year spent on the damned things. Their smoking friends won't say anything -- except maybe, "Got a cigaret? -- but their non-smoking friends view them as weak and hooked by a dirty habit.

If I sound like a square, let me tell you that I've tried such an assortment of illegal drugs it would make your head swim. I've had pot, LSD, uppers and downers, mescaline, cocaine and even heroin. But the only thing I CAN'T get off of is cigarets.

So please, Ann, print this letter for your teenage readers with this message from me.QUIT NOW. You might not be able to later -- and it's a lousy habit that can ruin your health. -- Old Enough To Know Better

Dear Better: Thanks for your letter. And now a message from me to YOU. There is no such thing as CAN'T -- only WON'T. Millions of nicotine addicts have kicked the habit and you can, too. Suffer a little now for the added benefits that will last you a lifetime.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I are taking care of my sister's son who is 18 months old. She asked us if we'd keep himuntil we got tired of him.

He is such an adorable little guy I don't see how anyone could ever get tired of him. Our own little girl will be four years old next month.

My sister is 22. This is her second out-of-wedlock child. The first one died from neglect. She is the type who moves from guy to guy and won't listen to anyone.

My husband and I have always wanted two children, a boy and a girl. This little nephew is just like a son. Is there any way we can adopt him legally? We love him very much -- which is more than I can say for his mother. She rarely calls and hardly ever comes to see him. Can you help us? -- Want Him Desperately

Dear Want Him: Your sister is the only person who can give you permission to adopt this child legally. I hope, with all my heart, that she will. Obviously he has a wonderful home with you and it would be an act of wisdom and generosity if she would sign the papers.

Show her this column if you think it will help. I'm keeping my fingers crossed.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently a very fine man who has taken me out serveral times embarrassded me by asking a rather personal question. He wanted to know why I didn't "do something." about a hair-sprouting mole on my cheek. I told him I had seen a doctor and he said to leave it alone because it's deeply rooted and removal might be dangerous.

My friend said the doctor was full of baloney. What about this, Ann?J -- Surprised

Dear S.: If the mole is deeply rooted the removal might leave an identation, but it would look better than a hair - sprouting mole. See another doctor. The only moles that might produce problems upon a removal attempt are those near the eyelids or the nose.

DYER-BUSSEY REALTORS INC

Heed the words of Walt Mason, poet-philosopher : "I'd rent no place of brick or stone; for an old caboose I can call my own is better far, though it's cheap and small, than a fine hotel or a rented hall. I want to set on my dinky porch and pull away at a 5-cent torch, mark the growth of the sparrowgrass, or pull the weeds from the garden sass. I want to tinker round at dawn, and nail a board where I see one's gone, or tie a string to the pumpkin vine and know that everything there is mine...

Spring is here...our signs are Springing-Up everywhere-- just like the jonquils!

Heed the words of Walt Mason, poet-philosopher : "I'd rent no place of brick or stone; for an old caboose I can call my own is better far, though it's cheap and small, than a fine hotel or a rented hall. I want to set on my dinky porch and pull away at a 5-cent torch, mark the growth of the sparrowgrass, or pull the weeds from the garden sass. I want to tinker round at dawn, and nail a board where I see one's gone, or tie a string to the pumpkin vine and know that everything there is mine...

City park plans able to proceed

NEW MADRID-- A breakthrough in the city's park improvement and development program that will allow the city to proceed with plans initiated two years ago was announced at a community betterment meeting Thursday by Larry Rost, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Recreation Committee.

Approval has been received from the Deaprtment of Housing and Urban Development on a revised application and a second amended contract, Rost said.

Under the contract, the city will receive 50 per cent of the value of the O'Bannon school site at Pinnell and Brush Prairie Streets when transfer of the property is made from New Madrid County R-1 Enlarged School District to city.

Rost said, "With this money, between $27,000 and $30,000, we can start the project rolling."

The recreation committee and the city administrator will meet and set priorities in the project, Rost said.

Mayor Jim Cravens reported that the city will cooperate with the recreaton committee to establish an aggressive funcpark commission with a separate budget to meet certain federal regulations.

The city plans to hire about 10 youths for a 13-week period, to be involved in the park program, Rost said. The community betterment group, he explained, can assist with the city's efforts in such areas as assembling and installing playground equipment, constructing driveways and erecting fences.

The Community Betterment Committee agreed to join with the city in the park development project.

In addition to the completion of the museum, other projects adopted by the group include the annual citywide clean-up drive, erection of new and improved trash and litter containers and development of a river front minipark.

William Baird, chairman of the Community Betterment Committee, gave a financial report on the museum project. Excluding the purchase prices of building, he said, $4,434,.40 had been spent in the renovation of the building and that bills due amount to approximately $2,000. Baird said available funds will be depleted and it will be necessary to raise additional money to obtain display cases and other needed furnishings. Mrs. Dot Halstad, announced that a public dance is planned at the building when work is completed on the restaurant facilities. Another fund-raising project, according to Mrs. Vera Ashley will be a public fish fry.

Recognition of the individuals, organizations, and firms that have made sizable donations to the project was given by Baird. These included Ralph Anderson Lumber Co., lumber and cyprus paneling; St. Jude Building Materials Inc., concrete; Noranda Aluminum Inc., light fixtures and air conditioners; Ann Evans Copeland, air conditoner; B&H Development Co., electrical supplies; Roger Montgomery, installation of electrical wiring; members of the United Brother of Carpenters and Joiners Local 618, labor on interior; American Legion, use of building and food for laborers; and the American Legion Auxiliary, food for laborers.

A project for the construction of a local hospital, advocated by Mrs. Kathleen Bock , was met with mixed reaction. The group agreed that a hospital would be beneficial to the city. However, members of the Chamber of Commerce, Medical Committee who were present, said there many documented reasons in the committee's files why a hospital had not been built in New Madrid.

Mrs. Bock said she believed it could be done and she would further pursue the matter.

Absentee ballots are available

HOWARDVILLE — Absentee ballows for the New Madrid County R-1 Enlarged School District election on April 1 are available at the New Madrid County R-1 Vocational - Technical School from the deputy secretary of the board of education.

Persons, who will be unable to vote on April 1 due to illness or absence from the district, may obtain an absentee ballot by mail or may vote an absentee ballot in person at the superintendent's office at the school.

Office hours for voting an absentee ballot in person are 8 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. daily through March 31, except on Saturday and Sunday.

To obtain an absentee ballot by mail, a letter requesting the ballot should be mailed to Markus Koch, secretary of the board of education, P. O. Box 56, New Madrid, Mo. 63869.

An absentee ballot will then be mailed to the voter and, after marking the ballot, the voter should seal it in the return envelope. An affidavt on the outside of the return envelope must be personally signed by the voter in the presence of a notary public who certifies the affidavit.

The voted ballot should be returned by mail so as to be received no later than 4 p.m. on March 28.

City's part of park fund $4,600 short

BENTON — A matching grant of $30,000 for construction of a city park has been tentatively approved, City Clerk Neil Dittlinger said Wednesday. However, the city's contribution to the park is about $4,600 short of what is required, he stated.

The city is donating the land for the park, valued at $25,375. The remaining money will have to be collected from donations.

At a meeting Tuesday night, the city's civic organizations agreed to try to raise the money.

The park will be constructed at what used to be the Benton grade school. Tentative plans call for a baseball diamond with lights, tennis courts with lights and a section primarily for small children competitors.

Steel said that wasn't the only reason for alleged nonpayments of obligations, but declined comment on other reasons.

He said that the attorney general's claim that the firm owes $500,000 in unpaid obligations is a gross exaggeration.

A receiver has been appointed by the court to go over the firm's books and collect the money held by the firm and planholder payments collected by the five funeral homes.

The funeral homes say they withheld the money after the firm failed to pay on policies they submitted.

A pending state bill would permit regulation of prepaid burial plans. The bill is part of a consumer protection package sought by Attorney General John Danforth.

3 arrested in store holdup are released

CARUTHERSVILLE--Three young Pemiscot County men, arrested Wednesday afternoon in connection with an armed robbery Tuesday at Fred Inman's Grocery in Micola, were released Thursday by the Pemiscot County sheriff's department after the victims failed to identify them from a lineup.

Released were Al Smith, 23, of Hayti and Carl Wiley, 19, and Ronald G. Lewis, 20, of Caruthrsville. The three had been arrested Wednesday afternoon in Caruthersville.

The grocery store was robbed about 12:45 p.m. Tuesday, and between $385 and $390 in cash, a ring valued at $500 and a cheap watch were taken.

Services for sportsman Denver Wright held

ST. LOUIS — Funeral services for Denver M. Wright Sr., a businessman, photographer and big-time game hunter who learned to fly an airplane when he was 58 years old, were conducted at 2 p.m. today in Lupton Chapel at University City. Burial followed in Oak Grove Cemetery.

Wright, who founded Wright Leather Co, which now has become a real estate holding firm, died Wednesday at his home in Ladue. He was 85 years old. Wright had suffered a stroke about a month ago, a relative said.

Wright was a long-time supporter of the "The School of the Ozarks near Branson. He recently gave his big-game trophies to the school.

He was born in 1889 in Caldwell County, Ky., near Paducah., in 1897, the family migrated by covered wagon to Southeast Missouri, where his father farmed, cut wood, sold Bibles "and depended on the Lord," Wright once said.

Wright came to St. Louis in 1908 after working in a shoe factory at Cape Girardeau.

Could you use four more exemptions on your Federal income taxes?

A husband and wife interested in a tax-deductible retirement program may now qualify for a Metropolitan Individual Retirement Annuity (IRA).

A working couple with no pension plan other than Social Security may each have a separate IRA and may both contribute up to the maximum based on their separate earnings: 15%, or up to $1,500—whichever is less. Together, they may annually contribute as much as $3,000 to their tax-sheltered retirement fund, if their earnings permit the maximum contribution by each.

And even if only a husband or wife is eligible, as a couple, they still enjoy added tax benefits with only one member of the family enrolled in an IRA.

Call me if you're interested in discussing the possibility of the equivalent of two or four more exemptions on your Federal income tax.

Steel said that wasn't the only reason for alleged nonpayments of obligations, but declined comment on other reasons.

He said that the attorney general's claim that the firm owes $500,000 in unpaid obligations is a gross exaggeration.

A receiver has been appointed by the court to go over the firm's books and collect the money held by the firm and planholder payments collected by the five funeral homes.

The funeral homes say they withheld the money after the firm failed to pay on policies they submitted.

A pending state bill would permit regulation of prepaid burial plans. The bill is part of a consumer protection package sought by Attorney General John Danforth.

City park plans able to proceed

NEW MADRID-- A breakthrough in the city's park improvement and development program that will allow the city to proceed with plans initiated two years ago was announced at a community betterment meeting Thursday by Larry Rost, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Recreation Committee.

Approval has been received from the Deaprtment of Housing and Urban Development on a revised application and a second amended contract, Rost said.

Under the contract, the city will receive 50 per cent of the value of the O'Bannon school site at Pinnell and Brush Prairie Streets when transfer of the property is made from New Madrid County R-1 Enlarged School District to city.

Rost said, "With this money, between $27,000 and $30,000, we can start the project rolling."

The recreation committee and the city administrator will meet and set priorities in the project, Rost said.

Mayor Jim Cravens reported that the city will cooperate with the recreaton committee to establish an aggressive funcpark commission with a separate budget to meet certain federal regulations.

The city plans to hire about 10 youths for a 13-week period, to be involved in the park program, Rost said. The community betterment group, he explained, can assist with the city's efforts in such areas as assembling and installing playground equipment, constructing driveways and erecting fences.

The Community Betterment Committee agreed to join with the city in the park development project.

In addition to the completion of the museum, other projects adopted by the group include the annual citywide clean-up drive, erection of new and improved trash and litter containers and development of a river front minipark.

William Baird, chairman of the Community Betterment Committee, gave a financial report on the museum project. Excluding the purchase prices of building, he said, $4,434,.40 had been spent in the renovation of the building and that bills due amount to approximately $2,000. Baird said available funds will be depleted and it will be necessary to raise additional money to obtain display cases and other needed furnishings. Mrs. Dot Halstad, announced that a public dance is planned at the building when work is completed on the restaurant facilities. Another fund-raising project, according to Mrs. Vera Ashley will be a public fish fry.

Recognition of the individuals, organizations, and firms that have made sizable donations to the project was given by Baird. These included Ralph Anderson Lumber Co., lumber and cyprus paneling; St. Jude Building Materials Inc., concrete; Noranda Aluminum Inc., light fixtures and air conditioners; Ann Evans Copeland, air conditoner; B&H Development Co., electrical supplies; Roger Montgomery, installation of electrical wiring; members of the United Brother of Carpenters and Joiners Local 618, labor on interior; American Legion, use of building and food for laborers; and the American Legion Auxiliary, food for laborers.

A project for the construction of a local hospital, advocated by Mrs. Kathleen Bock , was met with mixed reaction. The group agreed that a hospital would be beneficial to the city. However, members of the Chamber of Commerce, Medical Committee who were present, said there many documented reasons in the committee's files why a hospital had not been built in New Madrid.

Mrs. Bock said she believed it could be done and she would further pursue the matter.

City's part of park fund $4,600 short

BENTON — A matching grant of $30,000 for construction of a city park has been tentatively approved, City Clerk Neil Dittlinger said Wednesday. However, the city's contribution to the park is about $4,600 short of what is required, he stated.

The city is donating the land for the park, valued at $25,375. The remaining money will have to be collected from donations.

At a meeting Tuesday night, the city's civic organizations agreed to try to raise the money.

The park will be constructed at what used to be the Benton grade school. Tentative plans call for a baseball diamond with lights, tennis courts with lights and a section primarily for small children.

Haskins 'Coach of Year'

Unanimous choices were voiced by the Daily Standard 20 member panel of coaches and school administrators in final balloting for the Number One Tam and cage coach of the year. Mitch "The Switch" Haskins was a unanimous for the coaching honor and Lilbourn was the number One team pick.

The Lilbourn Panthers were a unanimous choice as the Daily Standard's Number One Team after sweeping to its second straight class AA state title and running its winning streak to 42 games over the past two campaigns.

Coach Bob Phelp's LHS athletes finished the past season with an unblemished 31-0 mark after coach Larry Warren had led the Panthers to the state title and 11 straight wins in the 1973-74 campaign.

While the Panthers stood alone at the top of the final poll as selected by the DS sports panel of coaches, a close battle was being staged for the second through 10th spots.

Advance edged Charleston by three votes for second place and fourth place North Pemiscot was only 15 points back of that race, after being the pre-season favorite to claim the top prize.

Lilbourn became the third team in the nine year history of the poll to win back to back titles, joining Matthews and Advance. The Pirates won the big trophy in 1967-68 and Advance claimed the honor in 1972-73. Since MHS's claim to the award, it has been a memorial to the late M. M. McMahon, the dean of Southeast Missouri coaches and father of North Pemiscot coach Dave McMahon.

In other voting by the panel, Jerry Cecil of Hayti was confirmed as the football coach of the year and winner of the Kenny Knox memorial football coach of the year award. Knox was a former Sikeston high school coaching great before going to Southeast Missouri State and leading their program in football and track.

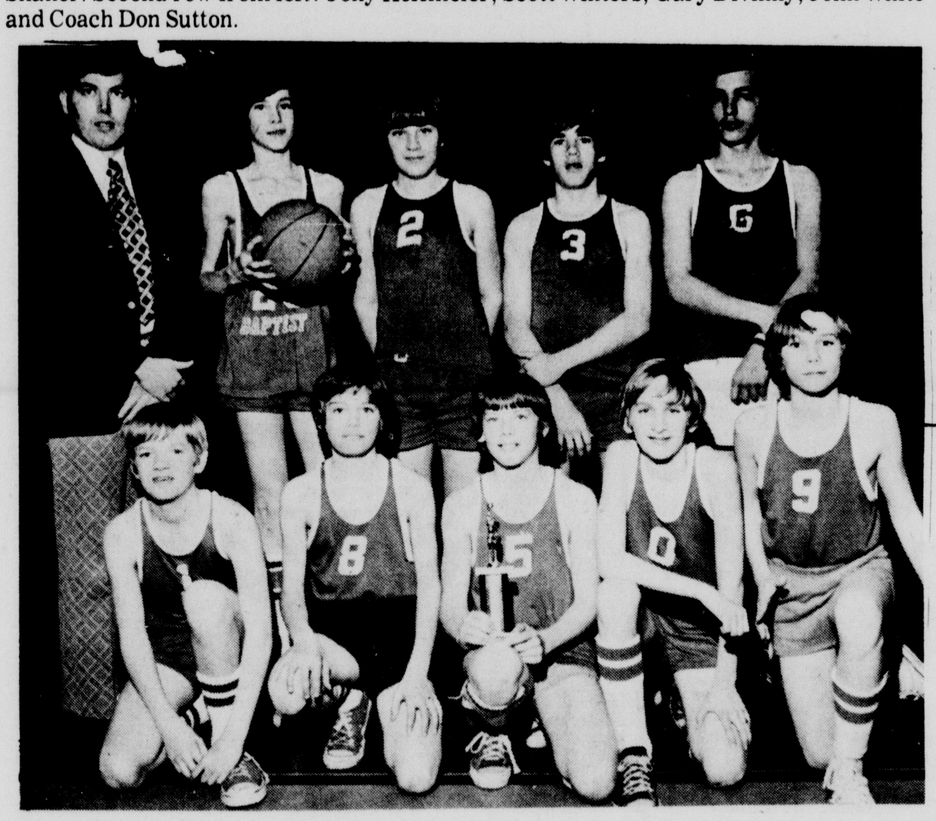

Mitch "The Switch" Haskns, former Risco high school coach before going to Western Missouri and building winning teams at Houston and other schools before returning to the "Boot" to change the Charleston Bluejays from a 5-17 team into a 28-4 club in one season.

The final poll, with first place votes in parenthesis, records and total points at right:

(1) Lilbourn (15)	31-0	200
(2) Advance	29-3	171
(3) Charleston	28-4	168
(4) North Pemiscot	25-4	156
(5) Kennett	26-3	118
(6) Notre Dame	21-4	111
(7) Kelly	20-5	69
(8) Scott Central	23-6	47
(9) Arcadia Valley	26-4	44
(10) Risco	22-5	37

Gibson strong

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals' pitching has made an abrupt about-face--and team officials don't know whether to laugh or cry.

Veteran Bob Gibson, injury-plagued and ineffective most of last season, hurled six shutout innings against Pittsburgh Thursday, but the Pirates bombarded highly regarded reliever Elias Sosa in the final three frames to grab a 5-3 win.

"This was the best effort by any of our pitchers, stuff-wise, this spring," said St. Louis pitching Coach Barney Schultz of Gibson, who scattered six hits and walk. "He threw 72 pitches. When he had to hump up, he did."

"Of the past three years," added personnel director Bob Kennedy, "Gibson has pitched better this spring, without doubt."

But Sosa, acquired over the winter from the San Francisco Giants and expected to help an already strong Cardinal relief corps, was another matter.

The Cardinals grabbed a 3-0 lead in the fifth, but Jerry Hargis ignited a three-run Pirate rally off Sosa two innings later to tie the match, then rookie Omar Moreno and veteran Dave Parker slammed eighth-inning singles to drive home the winning runs.

Gibson, appearing ready to anchor a thin Cardinal starting corps in his final season, has allowed just two earned runs in 14 innings for a 1.28 mark.

Sosa, meanwhile is only the latest St. Louis reliever to have problems. Al Hrabosky and Mike Garman, expected to be the team's top firemen, have also been ineffective.

"I feel fine," maintained Sosa. "I just need some more work to get my confidence back. That's all. Nothing is bothering me."

The Pirates boosted their spring record to 4-9 with the win, while the Cards fell to 6-7.

Haskins 'Coach of Year'

Unanimous choices were voiced by the Daily Standard 20 member panel of coaches and school administrators in final balloting for the Number One Tam and cage coach of the year. Mitch "The Switch" Haskins was a unanimous for the coaching honor and Lilbourn was the number One team pick.

The Lilbourn Panthers were a unanimous choice as the Daily Standard's Number One Team after sweeping to its second straight class AA state title and running its winning streak to 42 games over the past two campaigns.

Coach Bob Phelp's LHS athletes finished the past season with an unblemished 31-0 mark after coach Larry Warren had led the Panthers to the state title and 11 straight wins in the 1973-74 campaign.

While the Panthers stood alone at the top of the final poll as selected by the DS sports panel of coaches, a close battle was being staged for the second through 10th spots.

Advance edged Charleston by three votes for second place and fourth place North Pemiscot was only 15 points back of that race, after being the pre-season favorite to claim the top prize.

Lilbourn became the third team in the nine year history of the poll to win back to back titles, joining Matthews and Advance. The Pirates won the big trophy in 1967-68 and Advance claimed the honor in 1972-73. Since MHS's claim to the award, it has been a memorial to the late M. M. McMahon, the dean of Southeast Missouri coaches and father of North Pemiscot coach Dave McMahon.

In other voting by the panel, Jerry Cecil of Hayti was confirmed as the football coach of the year and winner of the Kenny Knox memorial football coach of the year award. Knox was a former Sikeston high school coaching great before going to Southeast Missouri State and leading their program in football and track.

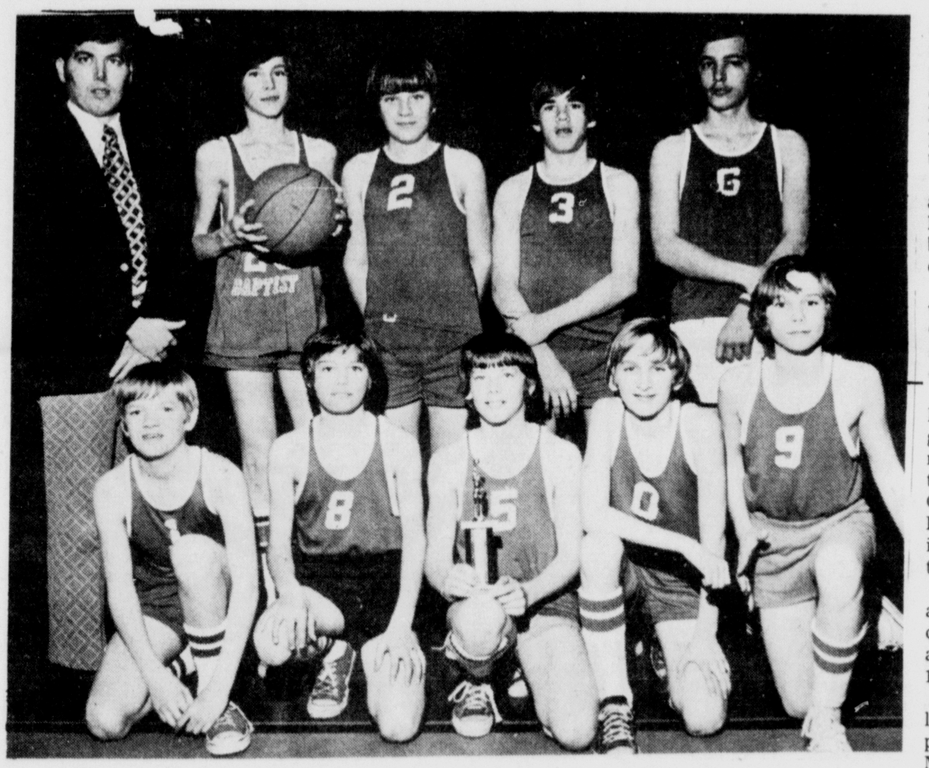

Mitch "The Switch" Haskns, former Risco high school coach before going to Western Missouri and building winning teams at Houston and other schools before returning to the "Boot" to change the Charleston Bluejays from a 5-17 team into a 28-4 club in one season.

The final poll, with first place votes in parenthesis, records and total points at right:

(1) Lilbourn (15)	31-0	200
(2) Advance	29-3	171
(3) Charleston	28-4	168
(4) North Pemiscot	25-4	156
(5) Kennett	26-3	118
(6) Notre Dame	21-4	111
(7) Kelly	20-5	69
(8) Scott Central	23-6	47
(9) Arcadia Valley	26-4	44
(10) Risco	22-5	37

Gibson strong

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals' pitching has made an abrupt about-face--and team officials don't know whether to laugh or cry.

Veteran Bob Gibson, injury-plagued and ineffective most of last season, hurled six shutout innings against Pittsburgh Thursday, but the Pirates bombarded highly regarded reliever Elias Sosa in the final three frames to grab a 5-3 win.

"This was the best effort by any of our pitchers, stuff-wise, this spring," said St. Louis pitching Coach Barney Schultz of Gibson, who scattered six hits and walk. "He threw 72 pitches. When he had to hump up, he did."

"Of the past three years," added personnel director Bob Kennedy, "Gibson has pitched better this spring, without doubt."

But Sosa, acquired over the winter from the San Francisco Giants and expected to help an already strong Cardinal relief corps, was another matter.

The Cardinals grabbed a 3-0 lead in the fifth, but Jerry Hargis ignited a three-run Pirate rally off Sosa two innings later to tie the match, then rookie Omar Moreno and veteran Dave Parker slammed eighth-inning singles to drive home the winning runs.

Gibson, appearing ready to anchor a thin Cardinal starting corps in his final season, has allowed just two earned runs in 14 innings for a 1.28 mark.

Sosa, meanwhile is only the latest St. Louis reliever to have problems. Al Hrabosky and Mike Garman, expected to be the team's top firemen, have also been ineffective.

"I feel fine," maintained Sosa. "I just need some more work to get my confidence back. That's all. Nothing is bothering me."

The Pirates boosted their spring record to 4-9 with the win, while the Cards fell to 6-7.
